Probe Begins In West Coast Maritime Strike

Walkout Now In Fourth Week; 60 Ships Affected

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-man board of inquiry appointed by President Kennedy under the Taft-Hartley law begins today its investigation of a West Coast maritime strike that has caused food shortages in Hawaii.

In designating the board Saturday, the President took the first step toward getting an injunction to end the strike, now in its fourth week.

Representatives of the Pacific Maritime Association and three seafaring unions striking 12 of its ship lines arranged to submit statements giving their versions of the dispute.

The board has until Wednesday to report to the President. Then he may ask Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to seek a federal court injunction sending the 5,000 strikers back to work during an 80-day cooling-off period. If the strike is not settled by then, the unions would be free once again to call their men off.

The shipowners had urged the government to try to settle the strike by means other than Taft-Hartley machinery. They said an 80-day cooling-off period would not be time enough to move sufficient cargo and that the strike could resume again afterward.

The spokesmen for the striking unions, Morris Weisberger, secretary of the Sailors Union of the Pacific, was asked in San Francisco if he would fight the injunction. He withheld comment.

Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii had made several appeals to the White House for direct intervention. He had declared a food emergency in his island state, which was particularly hard hit by the strike.

In his order establishing the board Kennedy said the strike had affected a substantial part of the maritime industry and would, "if permitted to continue, imperil the national health and safety."

The walkout has idled some 60 ships on the West Coast and in Hawaii. East Coast-based ships and foreign vessels are not involved.

On strike along with the Sailors Union are the Marine Firemen and the Marine Cooks and Stewards.

French Public Gives DeGaulle Support For Algerian Pact

PARIS (AP) — French voters have overwhelmingly approved President Charles de Gaulle's peace pact with the Algerian nationalists. The Secret Army Organization, fighting to keep Algeria French, replied with more terrorist killings and defiant proclamations printed in newspaper plants occupied at gunpoint.

Sixty-five per cent of the 26,983, 275 voters in metropolitan France endorsed De Gaulle's Algerian policy Sunday in responses to his plea for a public show of confidence. Only 25 per cent of the registered voters failed to cast ballots, and 90 per cent of the valid ballots were cast in favor of the peace agreement.

There was no voting in Algeria itself. European extremists there killed at least 26 persons and wounded 67.

Commando bands raided plants of the Oran Echo and Oran Republican in the west Algerian port city early today and forced pressmen at gunpoint to run off thousands of copies of the papers labeled "Special Secret Army Edition."

The rightist secret army was dealt a psychological setback, however, by the French people's thunderous endorsement of De Gaulle's Algerian policy even though it means the end of the once far-flung French empire.

Incomplete returns from metropolitan France and Corsica were: yes- 17,505,473; no- 1,794,553. A total of 1,102,477 ballots were invalid.

De Gaulle's supporters heralded the verdict as a ringing vote of confidence in all aspects of his four-year-old regime. Socialists and Communists, however, emphasized they were backing only his Algerian policy.

De Gaulle put before the voters a two-point proposal. One called for confirmation of the cease-fire signed with the Algerian rebel command at Evian on March 19. The other asked for blank-check powers to make Algeria an independent Moslem-ruled nation if—as everyone expects—the Algerians favor independence in a self-determination referendum later this year.

A 12-man provisional executive dominated by Moslems already is preparing the ground in Algeria for the self-determination vote. A French high commissioner is still in charge, however, until an independent Algerian government takes over.

Marine Chief Halts 'Drumming Out' Ritual

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The commandant of the Marine Corps has ordered a halt to the drumming out of disgraced Marines, a ceremony revived by a Norfolk commandant.

The commandant, Gen. David M. Shoup, said Saturday he had ordered an inspector general's investigation of the matter.

"The local commander neither asked for nor was given authorization for the ceremony," said Shoup.

Col. William C. Capehart revived the practice in August 1960 at the Norfolk Marine Barracks, and since that time at least seven Marines have been drummed out of the corps.

In the grim ceremony, the disgraced Marine is marched before a formation of troops while the "death march" is slowly tapped out on the drums. His bad conduct discharge orders are read aloud. Then an officer of the guard comments: "Escort this man from the confines of this U.S. Navy reservation."

The ex-Marine is marched down the line of troops. As he reaches each unit, the commander orders "About face" and the passing Marine is presented with a row of unfriendly backs.

Capehart said the ceremony was not intended "to humiliate or degrade the individual," but "simply to impress on other Marines who might be headed to a bad conduct discharge the seriousness and ultimate consequences of their actions."

Most Marine commanders handle bad conduct discharges simply by publishing the discharge order and reading it during a company formation, a Marine Corps spokesman said in Washington.

A Marine drummed out of the service officially has already received his bad conduct discharge.

Castro Wants $62 Million for 1,179 Prisoners

Price Has Tripled Since Negotiations Began Last May

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban exile negotiators will fly to Havana Tuesday in hopes of inducing Prime Minister Fidel Castro to reduce the $62 million set as ransom for their sons and husbands captured at the Bay of Pigs.

A spokesman for the Cuban Families Committee said Castro replied favorably Sunday night to a cable seeking an audience with him.

The vice treasurer of the committee, Enrique Llaça, said the committee already has raised $26 million in cash and pledges in four months to aid the prisoners.

The 1,179 prisoners, captured in the abortive invasion last April, were sentenced to 30 years imprisonment each pending payment of ransoms ranging from $25,000 to $500,000.

The unusual verdict came Saturday night by a five-man military tribunal, Havana newspapers reported. The trials were closed to the American press.

Prosecutor Jose Santiago had called for the severest penalties. The maximum penalty is death, but Castro had been reported wary of imposing it.

Some exiles here believe the sentences and ransom provision resulted from the family committee's offer to negotiate for the captives' release. A cable offering to negotiate was sent Saturday.

The price for prisoners has more than tripled since Castro made his startling offer last May to swap the prisoners for 500 tractors.

A committee of U.S. citizens organized at that time to try to arrange the trade. It was estimated that it would take up to $17 million to buy enough tractors or bulldozers to free the prisoners.

Now, that prisoners may be released one by one on payment of ransoms or indemnities ranging from $25,000 for a man in the ranks to $500,000 for the leaders of the invasion.

In New York, the chairman of the International Rescue Committee, Geo. Cherne, said his organization would not negotiate with the Cuban government to ransom the prisoners.

(Cherne compared the ransom offer to that made by the Germans during World War II—10,000 trucks for the lives of 100,000 Hungarian Jews.)

The families committee, which took over efforts to free the captives after the International Rescue Group gave up the project, told Castro "the concrete offer we are ready to make you does not refer to tractors."

Sentiment among Miami's 100,000 or more Cuban exiles did not appear unified.

Dems Debate On Statewide TV Show

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Money, the lack of it, who should say where to get more of it and ways to get more of it were the principle topics during the first of three scheduled debates by three Democrats seeking their party's gubernatorial nomination.

The three—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy and Alexander G. Metrakos of Cleveland — slugged it out verbally here Sunday on the hour-long statewide radio debate.

There were many charges and counter-charges and a splattering of humor, but few real issues came under discussion.

DiSalle explained and upheld his policies. McElroy accused the governor of lack of leadership and character and Metrakos claimed legalized gambling would cure all the state's financial ills.

DiSalle, who spoke first, stuck mainly to education, which he said requires about 50 per cent of the state's general fund.

The governor said Ohio is "not doing the job that ought to be done" for education. He said Ohio was 19th in the nation in teacher's salaries, 40th in expenditures for public education and 42nd for higher education.

"I'm not going to penalize a student for living in Ohio," DiSalle said. "I'm not going to balance budgets at the expense of education in the state."

He said funds would come from existing sources in the excise tax fields. He said there were loopholes to tighten and some exemptions to eliminate.

McElroy charged DiSalle had surrendered leadership to the Republicans who controlled the last legislature.

The attorney general read sections of the Ohio Constitution regarding the duties of the governor which, he said, "means that the governor shall tell the legislature what he wants done—and, where the money will come from."

McElroy charged that early in 1961, at the beginning of the last legislative session, DiSalle "surrendered the leadership required of him by the Constitution . . . He surrendered his leadership to the opposition party, which he now caustically criticizes for not doing that which he was legally charged to do."

Metrakos, a novice in the political field, urged Ohioans to "face reality." He said, "All the problems of Ohio result from lack of money." Metrakos, who lists his present business as "none," said a state lottery and legalized gambling would solve that problem.

He claimed "gambling is wide open in the state of Ohio, even if it is operating underground."

City Council To Meet on Meter Issue

Salem's controversial parking meter situation is one of three items on the agenda for a special meeting of City Council tonight at 7 at City Hall.

The legislators will attempt to decide what to do about approximately $13,000 worth of parking meters which Solicitor Thomas Coe says were ordered illegally by Mayor Dean B. Cramer last year.

The mayor and previous solicitor Scott McCorkhill insist the purchase of the meters was legal.

Auditor Helen Coyne, who has refused to pay for the meters, said she now has bills from the Magee-Hale Park-O-Meter Co. of Oklahoma City totaling $14,544.50.

The latest bill received was for $1,702.50 and is for 50 rebuilt meters which were ordered for the S. Ellsworth Ave.-Pershing St. municipal lot last year. Forty of the meters were installed on the lot.

Previously, the parking meter firm had presented a bill for $12,842, but this did not include the meters for the Ellsworth-Pershing lot.

Also to be discussed tonight is an appropriation to pay for an adult school patrolman at the intersection of Franklin and Maple. Council approved the hiring of the patrolman at its regular meeting last Tuesday, but no money was appropriated to pay him.

The other item on tonight's agenda is the possible purchase of a high-lift for the service department.

Two Indicted In Traffic Deaths

LISBON — Two persons, indicted secretly by the April Grand Jury for second degree manslaughter following traffic accidents, are expected to appear today before Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp and post bond.

The men are: Allen Rice, 18, Wellsville RD 1, driver of a vehicle which Dec. 19 struck a utility pole in Wellsville, killing his passenger, Eugene Delposen, 17, Wellsville, and Wayne Hillyer, 35, of Hanoverton, whose car ran through a wall of the Mid-Way Tavern in Hanoverton Jan. 13, killing a patron, Earl McIntosh, 43, of New Garden.

Arraignment has been set for April 18 before Judge Sharp.

Political Party Changes Unseen

Ultraconservatives' Influence Fading

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect that ultraconservatives will influence the course of the major political parties in this fall's congressional elections appears to be fading.

Leaders of both parties, in fact, are busy posting keep-away signs against jealous citizens who profess to feel that some of the nation's highest officials are entrapped in a Communist conspiracy.

The signs apply also to those who, among other things, want to abolish the income tax and to impeach Chief Justice Earl Warren.

This was demonstrated in the frosty reception Republicans and Democrats gave last week to former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker when he questioned the loyalty of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and others in testimony before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who sparked the inquiry into alleged muzzling of military men at which Walker appeared, made it clear several times he was not endorsing the general's statements.

Walker's performance on the witness stand convinced most of the politicians who heard him that the former general is not likely to become an effective spokesman for the far right.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., said he couldn't go along

2 Americans Killed By Reds In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas killed two American military advisers to South Viet Nam troops and apparently captured two others Sunday in an ambush near a U.S. helicopter base 360 miles north of Saigon.

The four enlisted men were ambushed on a training mission with Vietnamese soldiers near the town of An Chau, on the South China Sea, U.S. military authorities said.

Reports reaching Saigon said the four were with a group of 35 Vietnamese soldiers at a government outpost when a large Viet Cong band attacked. One Vietnamese was also killed and four wounded.

The Communists withdrew 15 minutes after the raid, apparently expecting a government air strike, the reports said. A government relief force arrived too late to engage the guerrillas.

The ambush brought American casualties in South Viet Nam since last Dec. 1 to 18 killed, 2 wounded and 3 missing. Only one of the previous dead was killed by the Viet Cong. The other American deaths were accidental.

South Vietnamese troops killed 25 guerrillas in a weekend attack near the Cambodian border, the semi-official news agency said.

Hollywood's Biggest Show

Tonight Is Oscar Night

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tonight is Oscar night in movieland and you'll see some of the year's best acting, especially by nominees who will still be smiling after the other guy's name is called.

It's Hollywood's big show, so big that it has to be held 10 miles away in Santa Monica's Civic Auditorium. Just about everybody will be there but Liz Taylor, who is busy in Rome.

Post time is 10:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. ABC radio and television will cover the event. Armed forces radio will short-wave it to the world. Televiewers will see clips from the nominated films.

As the magic hour nears, only the movie "West Side Story" seems a shoo in. The smart money picks the big musical to win all or most of the 11 races for which it is nominated.

"Judgment at Nuremberg," also with 11 nominations, and "The Hustler," with 9, also are front runners.

Then there are "Guns of Navarone" and "Fanny." Producers of the former, if they lose, can cry all the way to the bank. It's the year's big moneymaker.

If a "West Side Story" bandwagon rolls as predicted, then Natalie Wood, its star, may win best actress — although she was nominated for another picture ("Splendor in the Grass.")

Sophia Loren ("Two Women") gave what many felt was a far superior performance—some critics called it the best since Garbo. She could easily be the first actress winner in the 34-year-old awards who spoke a foreign language (Italian) in her role.

The other distaff competition is potent. Geraldine Page, the American Duse, is up for "Summer and Smoke"; Piper Laurie, former flower-eating starlet, for "The Hustler," and Audrey Hepburn, always a threat, for "Breakfast at Tiffany's."

The men's race for top actor is even closer. It's between Maximilian Schell, the Nazi defense lawyer of "Judgment at Nuremberg," and Paul Newman, the pool shark of "The Hustler."

But grandma — and there are plenty of them among the Academy's 2,500 voters—has two favorites — Spencer Tracy ("Nuremberg") and Charles Boyer ("Fanny").

Best longshot bet of the night is Stuart Whitman, the sex deviate of "The Mark."

In the supporting categories, George Chakiris, the Puerto Rican gang leader of "West Side Story," is the favorite.

The previously unknown Chakiris will have rugged jostling with two big names—Montgomery Clift ("Nuremberg") and Jackie Gleason ("The Hustler").

In the feminine supporting race, it's Rita Moreno ("West Side Story") versus Judy Garland ("Judgment at Nuremberg").

Judy is the sentimental choice but the sentiment vote also has Una Merkel ("Summer and Smoke"), Fay Bainter ("The Children's Hour") and Lotte Lenya ("Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone").

Handyman Uses Caution In Work With Electricity

Any handy man with an average amount of skill can handle minor electrical repairs around the home. But he will need to use more than an average amount of caution in doing so.

Contact with a live wire can cause a shock or even death.

Obviously the number one precaution is making certain that there are no live wires where you are working.

Remove Fuse

Remove the fuse. This is the surest way of cutting off current. Make certain, however, that you have removed the right fuse. Check an outlet with a neon tester or a bulb in a pig-tail socket. If they glow, you know the current is still on.

If there is any doubt about which fuse handles which circuit, better pull the main switch and cut off all power. As soon as you can, determine the location of each circuit and list it on the inside of the fuse box door.

Do this by turning on all lights and then removing fuses one at a time. You'll quickly find out which fuse serves the kitchen and which the bedroom.

When working on an appliance make certain that it is disconnected. Turning off the switch is not enough. What if the switch is defective?

Keep Tools Away

While no one would be so foolhardy as to touch a live wire with his bare hand, there are some who do it with tools. Leave this to the professional. Although your screwdriver may have a wooden handle, moisture on your hand could turn it into a conductor.

Never work around electricity while standing on a damp floor. Nor should you do any electrical work if you are likely to come in contact with any plumbing.

Replacing Fuse

When replacing a fuse, replace with one of the same amperage.

Don't use a heavier fuse. You just throw an extra burden on wiring which could cause a fire. If fuses continue to blow, find out where the circuit has been overloaded. Remove a lamp or an appliance, shift it to another circuit.

Don't replace a fuse with anything else—a penny or a nail for example. This would permit you to overload a circuit indefinitely, until there was finally a fire.

Put Back Cap

When replacing plugs on the ends of cords, be neat. Don't leave strands of wire sticking out from under the terminal screws. Knot the wire so that it is secure. Place the little cardboard cap back over the end of the plug so that the terminals are covered.

Don't hold down wires with bare metal staples or nails. Use insulated staples.

Building Permits

Five building permits, authorizing construction and repairs totaling an estimated $4,377.50, were issued last week by Salem Zoning Officer F. S. Barckhoff, Jr.

Permits were issued to the following:

Neil Weingart, to remodel a kitchen owned by Robert Vaughn at 360 Park Ave., $800.

Magdalena Szkola, to repair fire damage at 404 W. Wilson St., $300.

Weingart Brothers, to drop ceiling and panel living room at the residence of George Bowser, 530 Walnut St., $350.

Edwin Cameron, for repairs to kitchen of John R. Ehrhart, 439 S. Madison Ave., $125.

George Adams, to build garage at 1654 N. Ellsworth Ave., $1,000.

S & S Products Co., to put aluminum siding on residence owned by Kenneth Stewart, 970 S. Union Ave., $1,802.50.

A demolition permit was issued to Frank Citino to tear down a building at 496 S. Broadway.

CONTEMPORARY SPLIT LEVEL — The convenient kitchen in this modern, large family house has a rear entrance for deliveries or for serving on the dining terrace. The kitchen also opens on an indoor dining room and on the family room. Personal privacy for family members is insured by the four bedrooms being on an upper level. House HA230P was designed by Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y., with 900-square-foot first level, 739-square-foot bedroom level, 295-square-foot basement and 442-square-foot carport.

Disposable Paper Products Aid To Housekeeping

Here are four time saving hints for the modern housewife who wants to whisk through spring housecleaning chores in record time:

1—Save your towels. Avoid lipstick damage to your guest towels by keeping a box of cleansing tissues readily available in your bath or powder room.

2—Have a coffee break. Any one who is ambitious about housecleaning, will probably talk dad and the teen-agers into helping. Assembly line techniques to make lighter work. If you are a thoughtful homemaker though, you'll make sure there are occasional coffee breaks to renew energy. If you use paperware, you won't be adding to your work with extra dishwashing and laundry.

3—Window washing the easy way. Here's a temper saving trick for your spring window washing. Use lint-free paper towels for clean and clear windows. They're soft and easy to work with because they're highly absorbent.

4—Decorate your medicine cabinet. For easier cleaning and a smarter look, try putting adhesive covering on the shelves of your medicine cabinet. It will adhere to any smooth surface and, because it's plastic coated, it can be cleaned easily with a damp cloth.

The average new home of 1955 contained about 80 pounds of aluminum, which figure increased to 150 pounds by 1959.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I would appreciate your advice on how to use enamel so that it doesn't run down and form little "boils" after I have finished. I hope to enamel my kitchen furniture and wood cabinets soon and would like to do a better job than I did some years ago. I never seem to have any trouble with regular paint, only with enamel.

ANSWER: Enamel requires a slightly different type of application from what you call regular paint. It must flow on—with long, sweeping strokes of the brush. It will drip if there is too much paint on the brush, but it will not cover properly if there is little paint or if you attempt to brush it out too much.

When you are painting things like chairs and tables, turn them upside down or on their sides or otherwise arrange them so that you do as much enameling as possible on horizontal surfaces.

When you are painting stationary vertical surfaces, start at the top and work down. Drippings then will be smoothed out by subsequent brushing. Also, enamel across the grain first, then finish with upward strokes. Thus, by starting at the top and working down, combined with upward finishing strokes, the final part of the job will be at the bottom of the cabinet. The final upward strokes in that area will smooth out any drippings or other imperfections.

Salvaging Good Wood From Scraps Can Save You Money

If you buy the best lumber available and then cut it into little pieces, you're wasting money.

Learning to use economy grades of lumber can save you many dollars. If you are making fine furniture or installing paneling, naturally you will want the better grades of lumber. But for rough construction and for small objects, a few imperfections won't matter.

Knock Out

Items to be painted can have minor imperfections. Knock out loose knots and re-glue in place. Wipe away the excess glue, sand and you have a good piece of wood.

Cracks in thick lumber that do not affect the strength of the wood can be filled with one of the many wood fillers on the market. After the filler has dried hard, sand.

Salvage Good

For small objects, you can find many pieces of clear wood by simply cutting away the bad. Learn to inspect lumber to determine how much would be perfect if you cut off a split end or an end that is full of knots. With a little judicious trimming you can salvage a good deal of perfect or near-perfect wood.

Lumber of this type is generally designated as common lumber. No. 1 common has small knots and is sound, is generally referred to as construction grade lumber. No. 2 common is also called standard at some lumber yards. This grade has larger knots, some of them on the edge of the wood.

Utility grade lumber is No. 3 common which can have loose knots, some splits and pitch and is often coarse. There also is a No. 4 grade which is a little worse and a No. 5 which is good for crating and that's about all.

From most of these grades you can cut small pieces that are good. Or perhaps an entire length will still serve your purpose.

Mill Ends

Some lumberyards that do millwork will have mill ends, odd lengths of scrap that may answer your needs.

Another source is used lumber. This is ungraded, often full of nails and sometimes coated with paint. Determine if the savings are enough before you go through the work of pulling rusty nails, loosening frozen nuts and bolts and cutting away damaged sections.

Check for soundness. If a knife blade goes into the lumber easily

Singing Those U. N. Blues

As had been foretold by news correspondents and guessed in advance by every skeptic over the age of 14, the Senate whooped through a $100 million loan to the United Nations by a vote of 70-22.

This was a bipartisan move, as also had been expected and predicted.

The proposition that drew the winning vote had been prepared by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

The leadership that carried the day in the Senate was provided by Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, R-Ill., whose mellifluous oratory and adroit management made it certain there would be no last-minute defections.

Actually, Sen. Dirksen's job was not too difficult because of a characteristic of the United Nations issue that everybody should be aware of — and isn't.

THE UNITED NATIONS is the favorite whipping boy and scapegoat of people in this country who stand in acute psychological need of something to blame for failures that otherwise would seem unbearable.

They talk against the United Nations endlessly. They sneer about it, revile it, hold it up to ridicule and breathe fire when its name is mentioned.

If they have access to print they go through the motions of destroying the United Nations with barrages of typographical invective. They adopt resolutions against it and show their feelings with gestures of contempt, such as hauling down the United Nations flag if it encounters their eye. Politicians are very crusty about it because they know this makes votes on election day.

The United Nations stands high on the list of things that nobody says a kind word for.

Along with women drivers, confiscatory taxes, Kremlinites, the common fly and bureaucrats. Criticizing it for its failures advertises a knowledgeable, realistic, hard-bitten and clear-eyed view of the world. The best people do it.

It takes a special kind of mystic faith and courage to stand up for it. This special brand of faith and courage does exist, nevertheless, and it's notable that in every showdown vote on the United Nations the two-fisted, red-necked critics always seem to undergo a change of heart.

THERE IS NOTHING puzzling about this. It's human nature to blame all failures of mankind on these agencies that purport to be engaged in improving the breed.

Jumping on the United Nations for not abolishing war and making peace permanent and invariable beats jumping on the churches, which used to get all the lip when things didn't suit the perfectionists.

If anything happens to the United Nations, it will have to be replaced with something like it, just as it replaced the League of Nations after hard-bitten know-it-alls had destroyed that whipping boy and scapegoat for the wide-ranging shortcomings of the human race.

For $100 million in the form of a low-interest loan, the Senate couldn't find a better bargain, nor will the House of Representatives be able to find a better one. The United Nations hasn't brought eternal peace to mankind nor have all the churches that have tried to do the same thing. But it and the churches are worth what they cost.

It's cheaper to keep them in existence than it would be to destroy them and start over.

Each to His Own Statistic

Ohio now ranks fourth among the 50 states in net manufacturing value, a statistic compiled by the United States Department of Commerce.

Gov. DiSalle, who resented a preliminary rating of fifth instead of fourth, insists Ohio would have been third if the figures had been extended through 1959, instead of ending at 1958.

Net manufacturing value is a statistic compiled every four years. One year in the second half of the fifth decade Ohio was second.

NEW YORK is in perpetual first place. In the current ranking, California is in second place, Illinois is in third place and Pennsylvania ranks behind Ohio.

Even so, Ohio has nothing to be ashamed of, because it ranks fifth in population, a notch lower than its net manufacturing value.

Merit Increase

What's the difference between acting chief and provisional chief? Nothing, really, but from the standpoint of law, there's a difference of $108 a month.

Someone at City Hall discovered that Acting Fire Chief Elmer Bush could get that much more in pay if the lieutenant received a "provisional appointment" instead of being told by the mayor that he was acting chief until a successor to Chief Wright is named.

It's a safe assumption that from now on all municipal office vacancies will be filled by provisional appointments. And, why not?

Traffic Toll Up

Don't let the warmth of Spring be chilled by a cold statistic.

State Highway Patrol District 4 which encompasses seven adjacent counties has reported that 18 persons were killed in traffic accidents in March—double the toll of the same period last year.

Warmer weather brings the inevitable increase in vehicular traffic, adding to the multiple dangers that exist for each and every motorist. Drive as if your very life depended on it. It does!

Once Over

Benny Paret, fighter killed in ring, was spared knowledge of hypocrisy, double talk and investigatory white-washes. Probes are reported in many quarters. But TV fight watchers don't need them to reach verdict that TV fights have encouraged (1) Inexhaustibly bad matches; (2) absurd glorification of pugilists whose chief asset was ability to take a brutal beating in hope of a lucky punch; (3) fast rise to prominence of fighters with few skills and excess of stupidity; (4) current licensing of men of cleverness but far beyond age when they are safe from tragic consequences in any bout; (5) world champions picking pushovers and stumblebums for fights.

On top of all this there is the elevation into world championship contest of a fighter with a shocking criminal record, despite all the boxing commissions on earth. Paret was famed for ability to take extra brutal punishment for surprise fans by rallying Movies of fight show clearly that he was helpless when slugged again and again, with head outside ropes, and with opponent struggling against referee's attempt to keep him from getting in more wallops.

Prize fighting has reached such a low stage that pro wrestling, a mockery sportsmanship and honest effort, packs Madison Square Garden when a fight draws only a few thousand spectators. Rehearsed and put on as a burlesque or not, pro wrestling features every foul tactic and dirty trick in book, glorifies the bully and promotes fakery. Not only men, but women and kids, flock to wrestling bouts cheering the violation of every rule of sportsmanship. Mothers may even be seen and heard cheering the eyegouger, the throtter and fellow who kicks opponent in face for real or for the advancement of acting. This game needs as much attention as boxing, where most of the rules are obeyed.

TV SET has been developed that can be strapped to head and project image through eyepiece. If this also brings in the commercials it will mean greater hardships for mankind.

Old Steam Locomotive 999, which in 1893 did 112 miles an hour for N.Y. Central, is to be a museum piece. Pictures bring back memory of day when "steam engine" was king. It was attractive in its lines, made sweet music through its whistle and bells and created a spell never captured by Deisels.

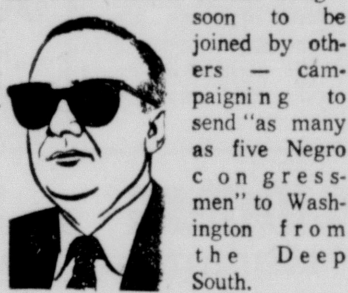

Believe it or not, with world civilization on the brink of disaster and the help of God needed as never before, the following prayer is being opposed before Supreme Court: "Almighty God, we acknowledge thee and beg thy blessing on us, our parents, and our teachers." Well, no protest to such a prayer would have been possible before, except on ground that it was far too brief. And people wonder what's wrong with kids?

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. Turbulent political winds are sweeping in from Mississippi. Above the uproar is the voice of the Rev. Martin Luther King—soon to be joined by others — campaigning to send "as many as five Negro congressmen" to Washington from the Deep South.

Victor Riesel At meeting after meeting, Rev. King is telling his people that "if we make a determined push in voter registration... we can change the entire political structure of the State of Mississippi."

It is yet quiet. But the storm will come. The Negro drive to pile up ballots has just begun. Most active and most dramatic for the moment is the work of the Rev. Mr. King. He has been campaigning like a professional politico. He has walked and talked and shaken the hands of thousands on plantations, cotton gins, schools and crossroad stores.

FOR THE MOMENT he is out of Mississippi. But he will return — with manpower and money. Some funds will come from the $750,000 the AFL-CIO has allotted to its own Committee on Political Education (COPE). This was arranged for down in Miami, back in December during the national labor convention.

The Rev. Mr. King had come to speak to the mass gathering of national labor leaders. Then big Joe Overton, of Harlem, vice president of the Negro American Labor Council, brought the Rev. Mr. King together with Phil Weightman, assistant national COPE director.

They declared war on some Southern political leaders. Money was pledged. The Rev. Mr. King, when he gets it will spread the funds and use the labor dollars as strategically as possible.

But this is bigger than one man. Many other Negro leaders have picked political combat areas. It was in Clarksdale that the Rev. Mr. King told a mass meeting of 1,000 persons that they could help revamp Mississippi politics.

NO ONLY is the NAACP active there, but in Jackson, Vicksburg, Biloxi, Gulfport and Laurel as well. They had two Negro candidates for Congress — Rev. F. T. L. Smith of Jackson and Rev. Theodore Trammell. The latter died recently.

But there will be another clergyman to step into his candidacy. And there will be other candidates in Atlanta, Ga., and Mobile, Ala., the reports say.

The Rev. Mr. King told his Clarksdale audience that "We must be prepared to stand in, sit in, and walk in by the thousands," when he referred to the ballot boxes. But Negro leaders no longer count only on impassioned speeches. They are deep in practical politics. They are pushing one of the most massive registration drives since the draft.

There is, for example, a pilot center being operated in the small South Carolina city of Sumter. There the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) has set up a voter registration clinic.

First, Negroes are picked up at their homes and driven to the official registration centers. If they fail to pass the literacy test they are driven back to the clinic. There they are taught what is necessary for qualification.

REGISTRATION forms are shown. Small classes are held in the small office which was opened some two months ago.

All the techniques originally developed by CORE are used. All the way from car pools to baby sitters.

Sumter is really more than a regional registration training center, chosen because it is in the ter, chostn because it s n the area where the concentrated Negro population out numbers the whites.

Soon the drive will spread through the neighboring counties — Lee and Clarendon. Both are big Negro areas.

There also are drives for Negro registration in Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana.

There are more than clinics. There are field secretaries, lawyers — and students. In one community 20 students, picking up the labor technique, rang door bells, distributed leaflets, and contacted 1,380 homes on just one Sunday.

There is no doubt in many southern circles that changes are coming — the doubt is how to meet them?

Bridegroom's Choice

Dear Ann: Our wedding date has been set for June. We are having serious trouble over the best man. My fiancé (I will call him Jed) has asked a friend of his whom I hate. This so-called friend has a reputation for being a loudmouth and a bore. He tried to break us up but failed. I want Jed to uninvite Mr. Loudmouth. He refuses on the grounds that the guy was so thrilled with the honor he had already told half the town. I say Jed should have discussed this with me BEFORE he asked the guy. After all, my folks are paying for the wedding and I should have something to say about who is in the act.

If I made a big fuss over this I could win. Do you think I should?—BRISTLES.

DEAR BRISTLES: Win what? The title of "Most Miserable Witch of the Bridal Season"?

The groom has almost nothing to say about the wedding except who shall be his best man. Don't put him in the humiliating spot of uninviting the guy. Be gracious — and silent — if it kills you.

Urban-Rural Discord

By DUANE E. CROFT

Salem News Special Writer

Court Ruling May Have Little Effect on Ohio

The recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court giving city voters the right to take their representation complaints to court stirred new interest in the urban-rural division in the Ohio General Assembly.

The immediate reaction was speculation on the ruling's direct application to Ohio. The consensus of those who spoke publicly on the subject was that it had little if any relation to Ohio's situation.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, a big-city Democrat, said reapportionment of legislative seats is automatically provided for after every federal census. If Ohioans want to change the system, they have the tools of initiative and referendum at their disposal, he said.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, which favors giving the big cities a bigger voice in the legislature, said editorially it did not see how the federal courts could step in and do something the people of the state had shown little interest in doing.

Beyond that immediate reaction, however, lay a question as much to the point but more difficult to answer:

How unfair to city dwellers is the assignment of seats in the General Assembly?

Clevelanders, supported by many of their counterparts in the seven other Ohio cities with more than 100,000 residents, contend it is quite unfair.

They charge representatives of small, predominantly rural counties can and do block legislation vital to metropolitan interests.

The smaller - county legislators deny this, asserting they view all legislation on its merits and are willing to help the big cities find solutions to their problems.

These arguments illustrate the difficulty of arriving at an absolute answer to the question of legislative equity.

Only one thing seems certain: City dwellers in Ohio are better off than those in most other states, particularly the other big-city states.

This results from Ohio's unique fractional representation system, which gives more populous areas extra seats at they accumulate fractions of population above the basic quotient established by the Ohio Constitution.

Viewing the five regular sessions in a 10-year period as a whole, these fractions of population can be added together from one session to the next and the extra seats scattered through the decade.

The wrench in the works, according to the city people, is the 1903 amendment to the Ohio Constitution allowing each county at least one legislator, regardless of the county's size.

The dispute over the fairness of this rule goes back to the ancient battle over whether representation should be by area or population.

Ohio employs a combination of the two, as does the U.S. Constitution in determining representation in Congress.

Ohio's state senators are elected by districts based on population. Its House members are elected by counties, with population playing a role through the fractional system.

To determine the statistical effect of this, let's use the U. S. Census Bureau's definition and say an urban center is a city of 50,000 or more.

Of Ohio's 88 counties, 13 contain at least one such city. These 13 boast 64.3 per cent of the state's total population, or 6,243,600 of 9,706,400 people.

During the 1959 session of the General Assembly, these 13 counties held 46 per cent of the House seats and 69.6 per cent of the Senate seats. During the 1961 session, their share of the House seats dropped to 44.6 per cent but their cut of the Senate votes rose to 71 per cent.

Numerically, therefore, the city dwellers do not fare badly in the legislature as a whole.

But ardent reapportionment advocates point out their showing in the House is 18 to 20 percentage points below their share of the state's population, and say this difference is enough to block their interests in the legislature as a whole.

This delves into the intangible of what constitutes an "urban attitude." Some cities of considerably less than 50,000 population face problems identical in nature if not in size to those of metropolitan centers.

Additionally, an increasing number of the counties classed as small on a population basis consist largely of residential communities around the metropolises of Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati.

The legislators from these counties often identify themselves more with the big-city than rural-county thinking. Their voting on recent legislation bears this out.

Lacking a Buttercup

By TRUMAN TWILL

Things got away from me in the bookkeeping end of the lambing this year and nothing is for certain. But it wouldn't be surprising if the ordeal were over until next year.

On the other hand, it wouldn't have been surprising yesterday either, then this morning there was one more bright new lamb standing by a proud mother's side. Once you lose track of the bookkeeping, that's the way it is. You don't know.

The uncertain elements are the yearling ewes that may or may not be mothers, depending on things beyond control. Generally speaking, motherhood among sheep is universal, as it is in all sheepish civilizations.

The uncertainty comes about because in the absence of bookkeeping it is impossible to tell whether the teenager has been, is about to be, or isn't going to be a mother. In this respect there's an interesting thing.

Some teenagers in sheep have no more knack for motherhood than for pole-vaulting. They not only are indifferent to their own lambs and unable to mother them but in some instances violently hostile.

Yet the same young females a year later may be the best of mothers, a circumstance that has made me wonder about the age at which mental motherhood is attainable among human beings.

Another interesting thing to note is the extraordinary capacity of ewes for motherhood after they are past their prime. The old gals have the strongest, largest lambs and do the best job of taking care of them. They make up in wisdom what they've lost otherwise.

One of these old-timers was standing by this morning, with her own husky, half-grown offspring, while the newest mother—a teenager—was getting acquainted with her little stranger. In this case there was no trouble. The lamb had been accepted, and its mother was proud.

Nevertheless the old lady was hanging around after everybody else had gone out to pasture. The barn door had been left open. It was the first morning the overnight temperature was not expected to be freezing.

There had been a hubbub as mothers woke up their sleeping lambs to get them started on their way.

The new pup was sitting on her broad-beamed bottom on a hillside, watching the exodus. She was not making a move. Everything is going to be all right in that department. She is a watcher, not a pesterer.

Only one thing more would make her happy home secure for all time—if someday she would go to pasture with the flock and watch over them while they grazed. That would mark her as a herd dog—a genuine Rottnollie. Spring has come. Only thing lacking now are buttercups for lambs to grow fat on.

This is the last time that house trailers will be subjected to the $18 tax, for a new law effective last January provides that such vehicles be assessed in accordance with their assessable value and the tax rate of the respective taxing district.

Ohio's weekend traffic death toll dropped to one of the lowest levels of the year, and the overall accidental death toll did hit a 1962 low.

Between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Sunday, at least five persons were killed on the state's highways. The traffic mishaps, however, were the only types of accidental deaths reported to The Associated Press.

The lowest traffic toll was four over the weekend ended Feb. 26. But during that 54-hour period three other deaths occurred, boosting the over-all toll to seven.

No multiple death accidents were reported during the weekend.

2 Games on Tap As Major Leagues Open Season Today

Senators Face Tigers, Reds, Phillies Tangle

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There wasn't a pessimistic manager in the pennant picture as major league baseball opened the 1962 season on two fronts today with the other openers to follow Tuesday.

Traditionally, the American League stages its inaugural in Washington, D.C., where the Senators launch the season in spanking new 43,500-capacity District of Columbia Stadium. The Detroit Tigers provide the opposition.

After President Kennedy tosses out the first ball, Bennie Daniels, a right-hander, will take the mound for the Senators. He will be opposed by southpaw Don Mossi.

Palmer Favored In Golf Playoff

Ties Finsterwald, Player In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, who again has proven he is the game's greatest pressure player, was favored over Gary Player and Dow Finsterwald in today's 18-hole playoff for the 26th Masters golf championship.

No less an authority than Player, the little defending champion from South Africa, made that appraisal of the dramatic windup head-to-head battle.

"Personally, I feel that on this course, his distance off the tee gives him an advantage," Player said. "But you never know what will happen in a round of golf. I'm not giving up."

Palmer, leading Finsterwald by two shots and Player by four going into Sunday's fourth round, made the playoff only by staging another of his fantastic finishes.

After strutting tee shots and a balky putter apparently had knocked Palmer out of the running, the strong boy from Latrobe, Pa., rallied spectacularly on the last three holes. He chipped in for a birdie-duck on No. 16 and after two fine shots on 17 stroked in an eight-foot beauty for another birdie.

Finsterwald, one of the game's yeomen who is better known for close misses than his 1958 PGA championship victory, already was in by this time with a 73 and 280 total.

Palmer's 75 and Player's 71 forced the Masters into its first three-way playoff.

Only Gene Littler, the current U.S. Open champion, was in the thick of things with the three leaders in the final round. When Finsterwald bogied the 17th hole—and that was a costly bogey—Littler got a birdie and pulled within one shot of the leader. But he bogied the final hole and finished with a 71 and 282.

The 1962 Masters carried a record purse of $109,100.

A TOOTHY PROBLEM

MONROE, N. C. (AP)—Everett Case, veteran basketball coach at North Carolina State College, was asked at a Jaycees' Bosses Night banquet if his practice of chewing gum madly during games helped relieve the tension. "No," replied Case with a smile. "It keeps my mouth moist so my upper plate won't slip during all the excitement."

Rain Hampers Last Exhibition Battles

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A rookie who isn't even on the roster and a well-established catcher closed out the major league exhibition season with two of the spring's most impressive hitting performances.

Rookie Bob Sadowski blasted three home runs and a single and drove in five runs for the Chicago White Sox Sunday while Earl Battey of the Minnesota Twins drove in four runs on a homer, two doubles and two singles.

These were the standout performances in a rain-troubled closing exhibition schedule that included a couple of rare ties—Cleveland and San Francisco 4-4 in 6½ innings at Salt Lake City, and Philadelphia and St. Louis 3-3 in 10 innings at Atlanta, Ga.

The tie, which doesn't go on the exhibition records, left the hopeful Cards with an 18-8, 692 record for the spring, tops in the National League and best in the Grapefruit, composed of those teams which trained in Florida.

The Chicago Cubs, who registered an 8-7 victory over Boston at Wichita, Kan., finished with an 18-9, 667 mark that was best in the Cactus League, those teams training in Arizona and California. The New York Yankees, rained out in their game with Detroit at Richmond, backed into the American League lead.

Chicago, tied with New York with a 17-10 record going into the final game, lost to Cincinnati 8-6 at Indianapolis in spite of Sadowski's inspired hitting.

Sadowski, a second base understudy to the Sox' aging Nellie Fox, got a three-run homer off Dave Sisler and one-run jobs off Sam Ellis and Dave Hillman.

Battey, Minnesota's regular catcher, did his belting at the expense of Kansas City at Jacksonville and led the Twins to an 8-4 windup victory.

In the others, all final exhibitions, Mack Jones' solo blast and Joe Adcock's three-run homer featured Milwaukee's 5-3 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers at San Diego. Houston put together a five-run rally in the eighth, built around Hal Smith's three-run homer, to beat the Los Angeles 8-4 at Houston.

The New York Mets-Baltimore game at Portsmouth, Va., and Pittsburgh at Washington affair were rained out.

Dumps American Billiards In Final 89-82

Akron Joe's Cage Team Wins United Tourney

Joe's All-Stars of Akron copped the United Booster Club's seventh annual independent basketball tournament championship Saturday night with a 89-82 decision over runner-up American Billiards of East Liverpool.

Both teams had advanced to the final after dumping foes earlier in the evening in the semi-final round. Joe's upended Akron Black Label 75-67 and American Billiards disposed of Wellsville Shaffer Trucking 74-66.

In the championship tilt, both teams battled down to the wire before the winners pulled ahead slightly in the final moments. The count was deadlocked 17-all after the first period, with the All-Stars taking a 43-38 margin at intermission. American Billiards pulled to within one point, 63-62, as play headed into the final frame.

FOUR OF the winning quintet hit in double figures, with Bill Reigal leading the way with 23 tallies. Also high were teammates Ben Coffman with 19, Dick Howard with 15 and Pete McCaffery with 14.

Bill Beery Named Most Valuable Cage Player As Boosters Fete Basketball, Track Squads

By LYNN BROWNE
News Sports Writer

Junior Bill Beery received the Most Valuable Player trophy for the 1961-62 basketball season from Jaycees President Donald DeJane when the Salem Boosters Club feted high school basketball and track teams at the Elks Home Saturday night.

In addition to the MVP award, Beery received a trophy for scoring the most points - 387 - during the season.

Co-Captain Bob "Bo" Eskay received the Best Offensive Player and the Best Defensive Player awards and senior John Borrelli's 68 per cent in foul shooting won him the best foul shooter trophy. Ted Thorne, the other co-captain, copped the award for most rebounds, being credited with 218 recoveries.

Other basketball awards went to Allen Ewing for displaying the best sportsmanship and to junior Marlin Waller for being the most improved player. Sam Watson received the Robert Heddleston Memorial trophy for having the highest scholastic record of any player on the squad, and Charles Mattevi, of the Laple Hotel, was awarded a plaque for being the best friend to Salem basketball.

ALONG WITH THE numerous awards given to the basketball team, three awards were presented to members of last year's track team who broke school records. Clair Leeper, Boosters Club president, awarded the trophies.

Herb Call set a new record in the high hurdles by scampering over them in 15.2 seconds. Ron Janovec heaved the shot 53-5½ and Don Davidson hurled the discus 148-2 for a new mark. Janovec and Davidson are both in college and were not present but their trophies were accepted by their fathers, Joseph Janovec and William Davidson, Sr.

Head track and assistant basketball coach, Karl Zellers, introduced the varsity track and jayvee basketball teams.

Zellers said that although this season's reserve basketball squad did not have the best record in the school's history it still did not have a bad one. The team ended the season with a 14-4 mark.

Track members recognized were Beery, Capel, John Floyd, Gary Hasson, Ken Krause, Dave Taus, Dave Edling, Ty Enders and Fred Kaiser.

F. E. Cope, Salem High School athletic director, spoke briefly and introduced the cheerleaders and the basketball queen, Miss Susan Fisher, and her court.

Coach John Cabas introduced the members of the varsity squad. Cabas remarked that it was too bad that the team must end the season with a loss. "But of the 933 teams in the state of Ohio, only two finish with a win," he remarked. "It makes us feel a little better to know that we have some company."

Continuing, the coach stated that this team was extremely hard to coach because all 10 boys had the talent to be a starter on any other team in the area. "And they are all scorers too," he remarked. "Any boy could go in and get us 15 points."

GOLD BASKETBALLS were awarded to the seniors on the squad — Eskay, Thorne, Borrelli, Watson, Ewing, Gary Jeffries and Jerry Wonnhas. Juniors on the squad were Beery, Waller and Bob King.

Guest speaker Robert L. Stevens, head coach at the University of South Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference "Coach of the Year," told the attentive audience of the "Respect Program" used at his school.

The seven respects he listed are: respect for the coach, rules of the game, for teammates, for officials, for opponents, for fans and, most important, respect for yourself.

Stevens says there is no book that can teach the qualifications for living in today's world as does competitive athletics. "Athletics teach the trials and tribulations of life," he remarked.

CONTINUING, THE Marine Corps veteran said that an athlete must require 100 per cent effort from himself so that when he leaves the basketball floor, the baseball diamond or the gridiron, he can look the coach in the eye and say, "I did my best."

IN CONCLUDING, the speaker warned the athletes to remember what they are in school for. "After the zip is gone from the legs and you can't throw a baseball as hard, then what are you going to fall back on?" he queried. "This is when your scholastic learning comes in."

"Whatever you do," he pleaded, "never do anything to bring disgrace on your school, your coach, your sport, your parents or yourself."

Stevens said Shakespeare summed it up when he said: "He who steals my purse, steals trash; but he who steals my name, steals everything I have."

Lucas To Continue Studies at OSU

By DICK OTTE
Columbus Dispatch Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Jerry Lucas, a young man with some big decisions to make, hasn't.

This is a fact.
Any reports to the contrary concerning Lucas' future, in or out of basketball, are based on speculation.

Who says so? Jerry Lucas.
When a decision concerning his future is made, it will come from the same source—Jerry Lucas.

"I haven't changed my mind about anything," Jerry told the Dispatch Saturday. "I still do not like the idea of playing pro basketball and have no intentions of doing so at this time. Neither have I signed a contract with any agent or manager, nor accepted any job or position."

"I still intend to return to Ohio State in the fall quarter to complete my education."

Lucas, who was 22 years old on March 30, says he has no commitments past a series of speaking engagements during the next six weeks and a number of basketball exhibitions with his teammates at Ohio State the past three seasons.

Among the offers Lucas has heard is one from the Cincinnati Royals who made him their No. 1 draft choice for 1962 while he was still in high school at Middle town.

Lucas met with Royals' executive vice president Tom Grace and general manager Pepper Wils in Columbus Friday.

Wilson described it as a "preliminary meeting . . . we wanted to talk with Jerry and get his feelings. So much has been said and printed about what we would offer and what he wanted or didn't want. We mainly wanted to clear up some of the rumors."

"We talked about many things and hope to talk some more. Jerry is a fine young man who has been a great credit to basketball already. We believe he would be a definite asset to the Royals and that we can make him an offer which he will find acceptable."

Lucas would say only that he had "talked with" the Royals, and would not discuss the amount or terms of any offer.

Before the meeting it had been reported that Cincinnati would attempt to land Lucas with a three-year contract worth at least $100,000.

Lucas also has talked with Mark McCormack, Cleveland attorney who represents a number of prominent sports figures including golfers Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus.

McCormack has been quoted as saying: "We talked about it (turning pro) but nothing definite has been arranged so far." Lucas added that his discussions with McCormack "did not necessarily involve any playing pro basketball" and that they reached no agreement either formal or informal.

The three-time all-America also said he has had meetings with representatives of several business and industrial concerns and that he has been contacted by the Cleveland Pipers who hold draft rights to him in the American Basketball League.

"When the time comes," said Lucas, "I'll try to evaluate everything and do what's best. I have to consider my family and my future. I don't feel I need to do anything hasty that I might regret later."

Meanwhile, Lucas is solidly booked for speaking engagements in Ohio and neighboring states through May. He was withdrawn from the spring quarter at Ohio State, leaving him with two quarters of study to complete for his bachelor's degree in marketing.

RESIDENTS OF THE SALEM AREA!

We have decided to sell Maxwell House Coffee for only 59c per lb. for a while. Some people tell me the only reason they go somewhere else is for coffee and we don't like to leave them any reason. They used to tell us they had to go for produce, but any more we never see a stalk of celery in the small bag they have from our competition when we carry their groceries to their car.

They Walked With Christ

A CHILD BLESSED

"Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them." —Matthew XIX: 13

Jesus loved little children because in the purity of their hearts and the innocence of their enchanted world, they often understood Him better than His gruff, mature disciples.

So He never turned them away, whether their mothers had brought them to be blessed or to be cured of some illness.

There is a beautiful story, unsupported by Scripture, told of how Jesus one day comforted a child whose dog had died. Listen:

"This story was told by John, who has been named the Beloved Disciple, unto peoples of the North countries:

"John said: 'I remember once He found a small boy weeping for his dog that lay dead beside him. And Jesus lifted up the child and told him:

"Animals live a different way from men and they see what few men see on earth. And often he befriended man, as thy furry friend lingereth now to draw thy vision from the earth that ye may see beyond this world in which men also die.

"The soul of man is at home in the highest heaven, where the Father of souls dwelleth. To learn of Him thou must first learn of what is nearest thee. Listen to the wind. What hearest thou?"

"And the child, holding close His hand, listened. Then he answered: 'I hear singing.' And Jesus further urged: 'Listen, what hearest thou?' (For the sounds of opening flowers and growing grasses—the sound of living things were in that song.)

"Jesus lifted the small hand and placed within its palm a token—a small shell that He had found on the shore that morning, and had carried in His tunic. He explained that the small creature who had once lived within this house had left it.

"Now pause a moment, watch the shell and listen. He told the child. And the child gave rapt attention to the little shell, and listened to the story of the sea, learning how a small shell could house a living creature who might depart, and yet not die. And that it is God's plan that everything in the experience of boys and men must change.

"The child understood only that this experience was of meaning that he would remember; and that would guide him through the sorrows yet to come."
